What's Behind the Honorable Mention?

A hero that embodies the spirit of the American people is a person who is brave, who stands for justice, who works hard all day, who makes better use of his or her time than most people, who is kind and who is honest.

The reason for mentioning the Honorable Mention is because the person who is mentioned is a person who is brave, who stands for justice, who works hard all day, who makes better use of his or her time than most people, who is kind and who is honest.

After much thought and prayer, the committee has decided to mention the Honorable Mention to the person who is mentioned. It is because the person who is mentioned is a person who is brave, who stands for justice, who works hard all day, who makes better use of his or her time than most people, who is kind and who is honest.

On this day, we will all be proud to mention the Honorable Mention to the person who is mentioned. It is because the person who is mentioned is a person who is brave, who stands for justice, who works hard all day, who makes better use of his or her time than most people, who is kind and who is honest.

Peace

There is a lot of people that are trying to be good and help each other. I think that is the best way to live. We should all try to be like that. We should all try to be good and help each other. We should all try to be like that.

The best way to live is to be good and help each other.
 We should all try to be like that. We should all try to be good and help each other. We should all try to be like that.

We are all here to help
 each other.

God bless

My Hero
By Emily Forsberg

My local hero is Sid Chase. He is in his eighties, he stays very active in our community affairs. Last year he was awarded a medal from the Governor of Idaho for his community service. He had helped our country too. He fought in world war two. He had helped with a lot of different stuff like the school district for example. So that is why I've decided to pick Sid Chase as my local and most fantastic hero.

Local Heroes, Local People Who Embody the American Spirit

I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and the words that we repeat with our hand over our heart. We see these words every Monday morning, at assemblies, and usually at sports events and on TV. It has isn't showing American flags, it has become a habit. When I walk into my classroom, every morning when I go there I see the American flag. People have flags in their cars, in their yards, and everywhere. We are so proud to be from America, and we want to defend to show our patriotism. We wouldn't have any American Spirit if it weren't for our past and proud individual that lives in our country. Yes, there are some that have given their effort, and you, we have some that aren't interested in America but I feel that every person that lives in our country is a Hero, the part is our American Spirit. They may not have served a day, or fought for our country, but they are proud to live here, and that is why we have our great government and our history.

There is so much to be proud of in our country. We have many heroes that should be honored for their patriotism and spirit. We thank them for their hard work and loyalty to our country. They are the ones that really did fight for our country and made what we have today. That is what makes us so proud, and it is why we have so much spirit as to make us so proud to be American. We are all equal, and we are all heroes, we are all part of the American family.

Our flag is the symbol of our independence. We all stand up and pledge and remember that we are proud. I know you're all here when we stand up and sing the Star Spangled Banner. I hope every American does. I hope everyone is so proud as I am to be who I am, and proud to be an American. I am not afraid to stand up for my country and say what I believe. It really is why we are all heroes and all part of the American Spirit.

Heros

Heros behind the heros. People who helped other people. Midmorning September 11, 2001, There were many heros not just one. The dogs that lead the fireman and police. The nurses and doctors that helped everyone. The Electricians that kept the lights on all night as they worked.

The heros who answered the phone and gave us hope. To all the heros that cooked baked and washed day after day. What I want to say is there is not just one hero!

We are all heros in our own ways.

God bless
